Dear Dr. Hamburger:

I am truly embarrassed to annoy you so much with regard to those excellent chick photographs. Possibly the end result may justify some annoyance!

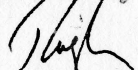

The stages 1-3 have been received from Spratt. The photographs you sent omitted stages 27-32 and 36-41, and the final stage is #44. Thus there are 8 stages missing. It may be that I originally suggested that these intervening stages might not be important for my purposes but before mounting these for reproduction I would appreciate your own opinion in this matter. May I await your advice before mounting the rest of the set.

I am getting permission from Holt to reproduce these and will give them a credit line although the pictures did appear, I understand, in Anat, Record. May I have the exact reference?

Finally, I shall plan to send these plates to you after they have been used. However, as you know, they will not be in as neat and clean condition as you sent them to me, after handling in the copyroom!

Again, pardon me for this further intrusion, but I hope it will be the last.

Sincerely yours,

Roberts Rugh

I shall ask Burgess to send you a comp. copy of the revised Lab. Manual which you may not have seen, in which I have added a new section on the mouse. This is in the hope of stimulating interest in that form.
